GENERAL O'BEIRNE ON PATRIOTISM.

HR SAYS THE MONROE DOCTRINE IS A PRINCIPLE THAT MUST BE MAINTAINED AT ANY COST.

The eighth anniversary of Harlem Council, No. 2H, of the Catholic Benevolent League, was cele brated last night at the Central Opera House, Sixtyseventh-st., near Third-ave., with a dinner at which 256 men were present.
John C. McGuire, supreme president, was in the John C. McGuire, supreme president, was in the chair. Some of those present were ex-Assemblyman Victor J. Dowling, Arsistant District-Attorney T. J. McManus, John Henneberry, R. L. Bamford, William Penny, Daniel Holland, D. C. Dononue, P. J. Tierran, P. J. Casey, W. J. Leddy and W. J. Donohue. There was music by the Greenwich Military Band, and the following toasts were responded to: "Patroltam," by Genera, James R. O'Beirne, Charlites Commissioner; "Hariem Council," by State President Richard Hutchinson, "Fraternity," by Recorder John W. Goff: "Lovalty to the League," by Mr. McGuire; "Charity," by the State chaplain, Pather McNamee.

General O'Beirne, in speaking on "Patriotism," said there was no nobler or purer sentiment in the makeup of the human family than the love of country. It uplifts the man from the grosser thoughts that actuate so many in the struggle for worldy gain and riches. Speaking of the Monroe Doctrine, he said it was a principle, the maintenance of which was essential to the integrity and preservation of this Nation.

"This country cannot with safety," he said, "permit any foreign Power whose form of government is inimical to our own to intrench itself in the near vicinity of our borders so that in a period of weakness they can strike a fatal blow to our Republican form of sovernment. The dectrine is simply the voice of the true American spirit, and must be maintained even to the clash of arms. There are none in this broad land more loyal to the Stars and Stripes, none will be quicker to shoulder a gun in defense of Od Glory than the citizens of Irish birth or Irish ancestry.

The door of her room was found locked yesterday morning, and access was gained by a duplicate pass key. The body was found lying in a position which seemed to indicate that she had lain down to sleep. She was fully dressed.

Charles Rohde, the proprietor, summoned Dr. D. E. Stevens, of No. 170 West Fifty-fourth-st., and he in turn informed Deputy-Coroner Weston. The latter found a small bottle containing morphine pills. He was of the opinion that the woman had died from an overdose of morphine, taken for the purpose of inducing sleep.

Some of the servants at the hotel say that the dead woman was addicted to the use of morphine. The coroner gave a permit for the removal of the body, and James Slevin, undertaker, of No. 25 Soring-st., took charge of the body. Max Freem n.
